Executive Summary on scottyab/rootbeer repository

Throughout the duration of the project there has been two major contributors, Matthew Rollings and Scott Alexander-Bown. As shown in the following graph these two authors have touched most of the files in the project and have also contributed the most recently. The following graph shows that there are only a few files that have been worked on the most throughout the history of the project, specifically Rootbeer.java and Const.java.

The following graph shows how many commits each contributor has made throughout the duration of the project. Matthew Rollings and Scott Alexander-Bown have clearly had the most significant impact on the project. Every developer who has made only a single commit could be removed from the project. The statistics used for the graph below were found using the git log command. The lab repository can be found here https://github.com/Lettuce05/cs472-team6.
